

Press Release: Three ECVC (Eastern Carolina Vocational Center) employees recently received promotions.

Christina Fulks, who was the Program Quality Assurance person, has been promoted to Assessment/New Bern Program Manager. ECVC is now offering services in the New Bern area for employment for people with disability.

Keisha Ingram, who was an Employment Specialist, is now the Community Support Specialist. Clients, after being placed at a job in the community, are given job coaches at no cost to the employer. When the job coach is no longer needed, the "long term follow-up program" goes into effect. Keisha will visit with clients at their job site as long as they stay employed.

Due to additional contract work, Jeanette Valentine has taken a new position with the company as the Production Operations Manager. Formerly, Jeanette was the Shipping Team Leader. Now she will oversee all of the production/packaging areas.

ECVC, since 1965, is a not-for-profit vocational business which places people with disabilities into work.

For additional information call Susan Daughtry, Marketing Director, at 252-758-4188 or e-mail sdaughtry@ecvcinc.com